Memorial for Men of Dieppe.

The memorial service in honor of the men who fell at Dieppe, which was held on Sunday evening at the United Church, was very well attended.

The local detachment of the Calgary Tanks paraded to the Church under the leadership of Lieut. Spooner and Sgt. Jack Garner with every man present. Many members of the Canadian Legion were also present and the girls of the A. W. A. C. acted as ushers.

The Church was patriotically decorated for the occasion and the service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Craige of Calgary.

The names of the local boys who were missing in the raid were read: Lieut. Dick Wallace, Trooper Jack Booker of the Calgary Tanks; Gnr. H. McCann of the R. C. A.; and Pte. Roy Brown of the R. A. S. C.

One minute of silence was observed and the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Don Mortimer.

Cigarettes for "The Tanks"

In recognition of the splendid service which the Calgary Tank Regiment rendered at Dieppe and as a reminder to them that the folks at home are thinking of them, it has been arranged to send a shipment of cigarettes to be distributed to the whole Regiment.

This Regiment is strictly an Alberta Regiment and every point from which these boys were recruited will take part in the contribution.

Mr. Jack McCloy has volunteered to take charge of the Didsbury contributions to the fund and a box will be placed in the Barber shop for the convenience of all who wish to contribute.

Red Cross Sewing Room Re-opens.

After the summer vacation the Red Cross Sewing at the school has been re-opened and while most of former workers were again on hand, there is still room for more volunteers.

The room is open every Tuesday evening and the committee wish to point out that the room is open to everyone and that any new workers will be welcome.

At the present there is a shortage of sewing machines and anyone who can spare their machines, for even a couple of months are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Caithness.

Besides the regular quota of refugee garments, they are engaged in preparing an emergency kit of hospital supplies.

This kit will comprise: 6 quilts, 12 sheets, 24 pillow cases, 36 surgical towels, 6 surgical bedgowns, 6 pairs men's pajamas, 6 women's night gowns, 10 sets of children's night clothes, and adult and children's pneumonia jackets. To these will be added a case of surgical dressings supplied by headquarters.

When completed the kit will be packed and kept at this point to be ready for any emergency that may arise in the district.

Later they expect to be engaged in making ditty bags for the boys in the navy.

The country branches will assist in this work and quantities of work have already been handed out.

More Residences Change Hands

As a result of a deal put through last week two residences in Didsbury changed hands. Ed Ford bought Mrs. Reitzel's property who in turn purchased the W. J. Hillyard property.

Townsmen Will Help in Harvest

Ways and means of rendering some assistance to the farmers in harvesting what is probably the heaviest crop in this district for years was discussed at a meeting of business men on Tuesday night.

Mr. Brusso read a letter from the Department of Agriculture outlining the situation and it was stressed that on account of the labor shortage, farmers should co-operate with each other by exchange of work to the greatest extent possible in harvesting the crop.

The question of closing the stores one or more days each week was discussed but this was not thought practical.

A scheme was worked out however where teams of four to six men could go out during afternoons to assist farmers who are badly in need of help.

The municipal secretaries were appointed co-ordinators in the scheme and farmers in need of help should get in touch with them and arrangements will be made to send teams to the farms where the need is most urgent.

A number of men have already given in their names and any other volunteers who are willing to go out and help in the harvest are asked to hand their name in to Mr. A. Brusso.

It is thought that 50¢ an acre will be a fair remuneration for stooking and the stokers are expected to provide their own lunches. It was suggested that the money earned may be devoted to some war charity.

The following have already handed in their names as volunteer harvest workers:

Howard Halliday	W. McFarquhar
C. McLaughlin	George Law
Len Berscht	A. W. Haley
Ed Buhr	Frank Haley
Chas. Geiger	Sam Krueger
Ed Ford	P. Janzen
H. Friesen	C. E. Reiber
Allan Gole	Jim Caithness
N. Nowak	Dave Jenkins
Jack Law	A. Brusso
Jack McCloy

No doubt many other names will be added to this list.

To Register For Five Days

Registration of the first group of women under the National Selective Service plan will get under way September 14th and last for five days, according to a formal announcement recently made from Montreal.

Only women in the age group 20 to 24 will be affected. Registration will be compulsory and those who are to register are:

1. All unemployed women, married or single, whether previously employed or not.

2. All employed women not holding unemployment insurance registration cards.

3. All domestic, self-employed such as proprietors, owners of small businesses, nurses, provincial civil servants, teachers and those employed by industrial and charitable institutions, excluding members of religious orders.

Other age groups will be called upon to register later.

While the registration itself is compulsory, there is no intention of using compulsion to obtain labor.

Weddings

RATHBURN-ELLIOTT

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Evangelical parsonage on September 8th, when Violet Nellie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Elliott, became the bride of Gordon Wilfred, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rathburn. Rev. A. M. Amacher.

Westcott W.I.

Owing to muddy roads, Westcott W.I. held its August meeting on September 3rd at the home of Mrs. W. Baudistel. It was decided to make articles of sewing for "Emergency kits" instead of quilts for the remainder of this year.

Telling something about the Magna Carta proved to be very interesting during roll call and then Mrs. Macfarlane dealt with the topic of legislation. A paper on the history of British legislation was read and the points of education, patriotism, and the meaning of democracy were stressed.

The flower contest was won by 1st Mrs. Baudistel, 2nd Mrs. Levagood.

Keep The Children Out Of Danger

Last week we drew attention to the danger of children playing around the train at the station, and since then the manager of one of the elevator companies told us about a near fatality at one of his elevators. A child was playing around the elevator and in spite of being warned away on several occasions he got into the annex when it was being filled with grain. The child started playing under the grain spout when the annex was being filled and soon became mired in the grain. Fortunately he was discovered in time to prevent suffocation.

We are all familiar with the attraction to children of country elevators and freight cars. Country elevators are filled with dangerous machinery and many children have met with serious accidents in elevators. Many towns have children who have lost limbs in playing on freight cars at railway sidings. Others have lost their lives playing around elevators and in freight cars at railway sidings.

Parents would do well to see to it that their children are not the ones who play around the freight yards and elevators.

Need Old Tubes To Get New Goods

From now on you'll have to turn in an empty metal tube before you can buy a tube of tooth paste or shaving cream.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced the regulation on Monday — a step taken some time ago in the United States. The order is now in effect.

Retailers are prohibited from selling any tooth paste or shaving cream in a collapsible metal tube "except on surrender of a new tube at the time of sale or delivery," a board statement said.

or UNUSABLE machinery

The Steel Controller has ordered that, after September 15, 1942, no person may retain in his possession scrap iron or steel weighing a total of 500 pounds or more unless he has a permit.

(For the purposes of the new regulations, scrap metal includes machinery, structural steel, or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel, which is not serving an immediate vital purpose.)

The order also provides:

That anyone, coming into possession after September 15 of scrap iron or steel weighing 500 pounds or more, must dispose of it within 20 days.

That any person having a valid reason for not disposing of scrap metal as scrap metal or who believes that it can serve some essential purpose, must send in a report by September 15 to the Used Goods Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Lumsden Building, Toronto. His report must reveal the exact description, quantity, and location of his scrap metal.

The provisions of the order do not apply to scrap dealers who are already subject to previous orders; nor do they affect metal fabricators and processors who are in legal possession of metal to be used in manufacturing.

A copy of the order, S.C. 16, may be obtained from the Steel Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

Infractions of the new regulations are subject to a fine of up to $5,000, or imprisonment of up to five years, or both fine and imprisonment.

The Best Instructors

Kindness And Affection Are All A Puppy Asks For

No domestic experience is perhaps quite so fraught with trials and uncertainty as the rearing of a vigorous pup. It is an adventure that seldom ends until the juvenile stage has been passed, and sometimes not then. So long as the mischievous racals peer from behind the piano and show the white of their eye and a pink tip of tongue, it can be taken for granted that they still have that streak of Peck's Bad Boy in them.

There is no accounting for what they do, or what fresh quest their rebellious minds will lure them on to. Millinery and fine footwear are the chief victims of their mock rage, or even a satin cushion can be made to serve in a pinch.

Their growth is also often most disconcerting, and the little fellow that is no more than a pocket edition at six weeks may be almost as large as a pony at twelve or fifteen months.

They are a problem. Ask the woman who has to put up with one, day after day, without respite, who fears to go as far as the grocer's lest she come back and find the living-room curtains in tatters and the chest-of-drawers explored to its last spring and webbing for bones that once were slyly hidden there.

Yet who can get mad at them? Life to them is just an endless frolic. They learn in time, and when they give their heart they give it for keeps. Books of Etiquette may be written for them, but, somehow, they don't seem to prove willing scholars. Kindness and affection are, after all, the best instructors. A little patience, and they soon adapt themselves to your ways, and then they are yours for aye and aye, come what may. —Hamilton Spectator.

Quite A Revelation

Third Of U.S. Population Within 350-Mile Radius From New York

Everyone, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, knows that New York is the largest city in the United States and the area that surrounds it the most densely populated, but the information recently given by the Commerce and Industry Association of New York is a revelation. This shows that a third of the nation's population and half of its wealth are to be found within a 350-mile radius from New York. A breakdown of the population figures show that in that 350-mile radius there are 432 cities having a population of 10,000 or over, or 39.3 per cent. of this class of municipalities in the United States. The total population in the area is 40,359,34 or 30.7 per cent. of the population of the United States.

CHAPTER I.

Mrs. Kay Miniver, her great decision of the day, having been made, hurried across the clamorous London railway station, and entered the end carriage of the train marked "Kent". As she looked across the aisle and caught sight of the vicar of her own village, her face lighted up, while at the same time she glanced a bit self-consciously at the hatbox she was carrying. That box concealed her secret.

"Why, Vicar!" she cried. "Isn't this nice?"

The vicar smiled, and offered to lift the box up in the rack. Mrs. Miniver demurred, and explained that she couldn't possibly run the risk of forgetting the bundle.

"I know the feeling," said the vicar understandingly, as he glanced at a smaller parcel beside him. "Guess what this is?"

Mrs. Miniver hesitated. "Port?" she ventured archly.

The vicar's voice descended to a stage whisper. "Worse than that," he answered. "Cigars!"

"Well, why shouldn't you?" asked Mrs. Miniver. "My husband does."

"Ah, but he can afford it," responded the vicar.

A slightly roguish, self-accusatory look crossed Mrs. Miniver's face. "I'm not so sure," she said. "He has a very extravagant wife. At least he had today, but I couldn't resist that hat." She paused. "I do like things beyond my means sometimes." Mrs. Miniver was an exceptionally young-looking woman to have a son at Oxford, and her face reflected a kind of warm, quiet dignity. Her three children and her husband idolized her.

Lady Beldon, who entered the carriage at that moment, was an aristocrat of the old school, with almost a feudal sense of supremacy and possessiveness. She was far beyond the three score and ten mark, but still made frequent shopping excursions to London.

"My dear man," she said, catching her breath, as she faced the vicar. "I've spent the whole afternoon being pushed about by middle-class women, buying things they can't possibly afford!"

"Oh dear!" said Mrs. Miniver impulsively. "That means me."

Lady Beldon stared. She was unaccustomed to such candor. "You're Mrs. Manning, aren't you?" she asked. "The lawyer's wife?"

"No," rejoined her travelling companion quietly. "I'm Mrs. Miniver. And my husband's an architect."

"Hm-m," sniffed Lady Beldon. Not to be thrown off the trail, she returned to her first thought. "No wonder Germany's arming," she growled. "Everyone trying to be better than their betters. Middle-class government. That's the trouble. It's turned us into a nation of wet hens."

The vicar excused himself, concealing a smile, and in a moment Lady Beldon went browsing down the aisle in search of a vacant double seat.

Mr. Ballard, the white-haired station master and church bell-ringer, earned his living by recording ticket sales and supervising the flow of rural traffic, but he had a keener interest than that. It was floriculture, and in particular roses. When Mrs. Miniver paused to admire the handsome new rose he had developed, Mr. Ballard drew back and remarked:

"I've got a name for it, if you'll give me your permission."

"Of course, but I don't—" began Mrs. Miniver, puzzled.

"I want to call it the 'Mrs. Miniver,'" said Mr. Ballard gravely. "You remind me of the flower."

Mrs. Miniver was genuinely touched. "It's a lovely compliment," she said, when she recovered from her surprise. "I'd be very happy to have you name the rose after me."

"I'm going to enter it in the flower show this year," Mr. Ballard told his assistant after she had left. "Lady Beldon's been winning the prize for the best rose every year, but it'll be different this time."

Tommy and Judy, the two younger Miniver children, were much excited when their mother returned home, Napoleon, the family cat, had turned a bit pale around the gills after partaking of some left-over salmon. He was recovering, however. After dinner, when the youngsters had been sent to bed, Mrs. Miniver fidgeted about while she tried to figure out the most discreet way of breaking the news about her London extravagance. Clem, her husband, suddenly paused over his coffee and said:

"Tires are getting pretty worn on that old bus."

"Clem," said Mrs. Miniver, "you ought to buy yourself a new tire." She looked birds' eye fashion at him. "It shouldn't cost any more than—well, a hat, should it?"

"A hat?" said Clem blankly. "Why, no I suppose not. You know this car of ours has been giving us a lot of trouble lately. It's slow, it's dangerously slow."

"Clem," smiled Mrs. Miniver, "what are you hinting at?"

"Get your coat on," said her husband, rising. "I've got something to show you." When they had reached the courtyard, he pointed to a new low-lined car, with cobalt-blue trimming. Mrs. Miniver gasped slightly, and suppressed a chuckle. Here, while she had been fighting a mental battle about buying the hat, her helpmate had traded in their old car for a new one.

"What's the use of having a little money," said Clem, pressing her arm, "if once in a while you can't be reckless with it?"

When Vin arrived on the train from Oxford, next morning, he was three-quarters of an inch taller than when he left Kent, he had acquired a pipe, and he looked abnormally pensive. He gave merely a casual glance at the new car, and when, after dinner, his fond but mildly curious parents tried to draw him out, he said:

"When I think of the vast amount of knowledge in the world, and realize how little I possess, it makes me shudder. And the time I've wasted—punting—cricket—dancing—"

"You haven't wasted so much dear," said his mother tenderly.

"Oh, yes, I have!" cried Vin emphatically. "You see, most people don't have enough social consciousness. I tell you Father, when I think of the class system that exists in this country—"

Before he could complete the sentence, Gladys, the Miniver maid, stepped in to announce the arrival of Miss Carol Beldon. The Minivers exchanged surprised glances, for the visit was totally unexpected.

Carol, a sweet-faced girl with sparkling eyes, came forward, introduced herself, and then turned to Mrs. Miniver.

"You really must excuse me for invading your home like this," she said, "but, frankly, I've come to make a request. You see, my grandmother doesn't know I've come. It's about the rose."

"The rose?" echoed Mrs. Miniver, puzzled.

"Yes," answered the girl. "The one Mr. Ballard grew. The 'Mrs. Miniver.' You see, he intends to enter it in the flower show."

"You mean, for the Beldon Challenge Cup?" asked Mrs. Miniver, eyes widening.

Carol nodded. "No one has ever entered a rose in competition to my grandmother before," she said. "It's become a sort of tradition." She paused. "I know it seems an awful thing to ask, but it means so much to her, and I thought perhaps as a favor, you might persuade Mr. Ballard to withdraw his entry."

Vin swung about. "I see, Miss Beldon," he said coldly. "So the feudal system still exists in this village."

"Vin, please," interrupted Mrs. Miniver.

"I mean what I say, reiterated Vin. 'This is supposed to be an open competition, but Mr. Ballard isn't of the ruling class.'"

"Remember, Vin," said his father, "Miss Beldon is a guest here, and if you've got any manners at all—"

"Manners are everything, aren't they?" asked Vin ironically.

"If you feel something is wrong with our system, why don't you do something?" asked Carol. "I've spent most of my holidays these past years doing settlement work in London."

"The usual aristocratic evasion," said Vin in polite scorn. "You'll have to excuse me, Miss Beldon." He turned and strode from the room.

"Really, I must apologize," said Mrs. Miniver warmly to Carol.

"Oh, no, please," smiled the girl, "it's all right — and besides, he's rather nice, isn't he?"

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Honey and bran are two of the oldest foods known to man. But just recently the food experts have been combining them with beautiful results. Typical are Honey All-Bran Spice Cookies. They're simple and inexpensive to make, and naturally call for no sugar!

Honey All-Bran Spice Cookies

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup honey
1 egg
1 cup All-Bran
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup seedless raisins
Blend shortening and honey thoroughly. Add egg and beat until creamy. Add All-Bran. Sift flour with salt, baking powder, soda, cloves and cinnamon; combine with raisins; add to first mixture and beat well. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls on lightly greased baking sheet about 2 1/2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.
Yield: Two dozen cookies (3 inches in diameter).

THE BIRD CHORUS

The National Audubon Society estimates the U.S. bird population at 5,750,000,000. No figure is given for Canada, says the Edmonton Journal; but a man who likes to sleep in Sunday mornings thinks it must be considerably higher, judging by the number of birds singing outside his bedroom window.

Man has learned to fly higher, faster, straighter, and farther than birds, and he is able to fly across country in weather that limits birds to short, local flights.

SMILE AWHILE

Papa: "My, how could you be so stupid, Ikey? Science is dose things vat say 'No smoking' and 'Keep Off the Grass!'"

Teacher—What's a Grecian urn?
Jimmie—That's all depends on what he does.

"Humph. So you want a job. Do you ever tell lies?"

"No, sir, but I could learn."

The new Land Girl was doing her best, but she was evidently finding everything on the farm very strange.

Having had an incubator explained to her, and been asked if she fully understood it, she put her head on one side and, with a puzzled look, replied:

"Yes, but where does the hen sit?"

"Mother," asked little Peter, when the family had guests for dinner, "Is the dessert too rich for me, or is there enough to go around?"

Jane: Do you understand baseball?
Joan: Perfectly; but why does that man run so hard with nobody after him?

Urchin—Porter, can I help you?
Porter—A little shrump like you? How could you help me?
Urchin—Well, I could do the groaning when you carry the trunks.

"Did she promise to marry you?"
Oh, yes; but I've got to wait until they move next month. Just at present there's no room for me in her father's house!"

News of Your Army

By Lieut. John W. Hughes

They make 'em tough in Brockville these days. Tougher than ever before!

The new officers of the Canadian Army who are now training at the Officers' Training Centre in Brockville have recently had instruction in what has been called "gutter fighting" by experts.

No trick is missed by the officer candidate, and the "daddy of them all" is at present in the centre instructing the future Commando leaders. He is Major Ewart Fairbairn, late of the Shanghai Municipal Police the toughest police force in the world.

For thirty years prior to the outbreak of war, the Major was with the Shanghai police. His methods, now being used at Brockville, were developed in alleys and shadows of Shanghai. The famous Japanese judo (ju-jitsu) contributed, and so did Chinese boxing. Major Fairbairn's methods can beat both.

Shanghai was filled with cut-throats and the police had to be tough. Tougher even than the killers they had to bring in.

Major Fairbairn made them tough.
Since then he has instructed the British Commandos and parachute troops, and the American armed forces. Now he is in Brockville for a short time to give the instructors there an insight into his methods.

Knife fighting is one of the most important phases of Commando training, claims Major Fairbairn; and he knows whereof he speaks. The "Commando knife" was designed by him.
And he shows his followers how to use it. The modern soldier can't carry the spirit of sportsmanship into a theatre of action. He has to be hard-hearted to last. It's himself or his enemy. And the Commando has already proven himself superior to his opponent.

Used Bags Needed, Must Be Returned

Used bags made from all kinds of textiles that found numerous uses in households throughout the country, especially during the depression era, must now be returned for re-use, according to an order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Shortage of materials caused by war demands, sources of supply no longer available, and shipping difficulties, will have to be met by re-use of the various types of bags. National Salvage headquarters urges the earliest possible return to the trade of all available supplies in town and country homes.

Bags returned must be of sound and clean material. Cotton, heavy twill, jute and sisal are all included in the order, which makes it an offence to cut or destroy or use for any purpose any of these types.

If turned in to a local salvage committee, funds for war charities will result. Other sources to which returns may be made are dealers from whom goods in bags are purchased, or local salvage dealers. Scrap bagging should be salvaged; it is needed in the manufacture of roofing.

The World of Wheat

A Saskatchewan farmer has drawn to my attention a statement made by a large cattle feeding farm operating in the vicinity of Chicago. This farm announced that they intend to purchase, and to feed to cattle, this year a good deal of wheat in place of corn.
They found from their tests that cattle fed on wheat gained 2 1/4 lbs. a day.
They also found that steers fed on wheat required slightly less feed per 100 pounds of gain as compared to those fed on corn. They summarised their tests by stating that wheat has a surprisingly high feeding value for steers. They note, however, that if wheat is fed it must be given a rough grind or simply be cracked to gain the best results. If it is ground too fine it forms a sticky mass in the animals mouth and will not be thoroughly digested.

This American farm found also that if wheat is used with corn for cattle feeding, it decrease the need for purchasing additional supplements or concentrates. Their tests showed that wheat was not a suitable feed for sheep, but that pigs fatten in good style on the grain.

It struck me that these experiments, made near the great stock markets in Chicago, may be of interest to some of our Western Canadian farmers.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE

IN CASE OF

WAR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

OWNERS OF PROPERTY ARE URGED TO INSURE AGAINST LOSS BY ENEMY ACTION

The Government of Canada, by Act of Parliament, has set up a Plan of War Risk Insurance against damage to property caused by enemy action—by countermeasures taken against the enemy—by explosions of war munitions handled by third parties.

In terms of general information, it may be stated that the Plan provides a certain limited FREE COMPENSATION for damage to owner-occupied homes and to chattels, but the main feature of the Plan is that owners of most types of property can protect their property by PUR-CHASE of GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE at very moderate rates.

This type of War Risk Insurance is not being sold today by private insurance companies, because of the risk involved. Consequently, the Government has established a national scheme to make it possible for each citizen in Canada to purchase the sense of security that comes from knowing that if his property does suffer war damage (and the war has come much closer to Canada in the last twelve months) he can call on the resources of Canada to help him make good his property loss.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE

The Fire Insurance Agents and Companies of Canada have volunteered to the Government the services of their extensive facilities and personnel, on a non-profit basis, thus avoiding the setting up of the large organization that otherwise would be needed to handle details of this nation-wide Government War Risk Insurance scheme.

YOUR FIRE INSURANCE AGENT
OR COMPANY WILL GLADLY SUPPLY COMPLETE DETAILS OF
THIS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE PLAN.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS PUBLISHED
so that the public may have notice of the Government War Risk Insurance Scheme.
The information given above is not intended to be a complete resumé of the Scheme. Full information regarding conditions, exclusions, etc., is available elsewhere.

TO HOME OWNERS HOUSEHOLDERS and OTHERS

provided under the Act for War Damage by enemy action to

—for each child under 16, up to $100—for others, not house-tional to the above amounts

Prepare For Game Shooting Season

With the game shooting season due to open shortly, and preparations being made for expeditions, the need of exercising care in connection with regulations is emphasized by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

The Game Act provides that it is unlawful at any time to have a loaded shotgun or loaded rifle in any vehicle of any kind or to discharge any such shotgun or rifle from any vehicle.

Strict observance of these regulations will eliminate such accidents, some of which have had fatal results in this province.

Numerous inquiries have been received by game officials concerning the prospects for this season and it is anticipated that many outside hunters will take advantage of Alberta's big game and bird shooting attractions.

Importance of attracting big game hunters here has been stressed by provincial government officials.

Several thousand of these hunters should leave a large amount of cash in the province, due to purchases of supplies and outlays for outfitters and other requirements.

Some provinces take special care to offer inducements to big game hunters, even to reducing the license fee.

Alberta could do much more along the line of improving the attractions for these non-resident sportsmen, it is suggested.

Millers Are To Be Paid a Drawback

Flour mills in Canada will be provided with western wheat at a price appropriate to flour ceiling prices, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced. Although higher prices now prevail for western wheat, millers will continue to buy their requirements on the open market, and will be eligible for a drawback representing the difference between the average price estimated to have been paid, and the appropriate price for wheat ground for domestic use. The drawback will not be paid for flour exported from Canada.

Price ceilings on flour are the highest prices prevailing during the basic period, September 15th to October 11th. The price of wheat appropriate to these flour prices has been determined tentatively by the W. P. T. B. as 77½¢ per bushel for No. 1 Northern, in store Fort William. The price is subject to adjustment after investigation of milling costs by the Board.

The drawback will be paid for flour delivered on and after August 1st, 1942, pursuant to sales contracts made on and after that date. Unfilled contracts as at July 31st will not be eligible for drawback.

THE NEW INCOME TAX

PART I - As it Affects SALARY AND WAGE EARNERS

1. Question: WHO MUST PAY?

Answer: All persons in receipt of incomes over $660 single—or $1200 married.

2. Question: WHAT FORMS DO YOU HAVE TO FILL OUT?

Answer: Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments for allowable personal savings (Item 5D), you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise he must deduct the amounts provided by the Table of Tax Deductions for a single person without dependents or personal savings.

If ¼ or more of your income comes from salary or wages, you must file your 1942 Income Return by 30th September 1943. If your income is not over $5,000, including not over $100 from investments, you will use Form T1-Special; otherwise you will use Form T1.

3. Question: WHEN AND HOW IS YOUR TAX COLLECTED?

Answer: Your employer is required by law to make deductions from your salary or wages on account of your 1942 tax during the period September 1942 to August 1943. Each deduction must be the amount provided by the official Table of Tax Deductions for your current rate of pay, and family status and personal savings as declared on Form TD-1 (Item 2 above).

The Table is designed to collect about 90% of the tax on your salary or wages, leaving a balance of not more than 10%, in most cases, (plus tax on your other income, if any) to be paid with your Income Return to be filed in September 1943.

If your salary or wages are less than ¼ of your income, you must pay tax on your other income by compulsory instalments. (See Part II below).

4. Question: WHAT CONSTITUTES TAXABLE INCOME?

Answer: Your income is made up of your full salary or wages before any deductions whatsoever, plus living allowances, gratuities or bonuses (including cost of living bonus) and the value of any board, living quarters or supplies, etc., given you by your employer. It also includes such receipts as interest and dividends, rents (after taxes, repairs, etc.), royalties, and annuities. From your total income you deduct payments (up to $300) into certain types of employees' superannuation or pension funds, charitable donations up to 10% of your income, and medical expenses over 5% of your income (maximum—$400 single, $600 married, plus $100 for each dependent up to four), to find the amount of your taxable income.

5. Question: HOW MUCH DO YOU PAY?

Answer: (A) Normal Tax—(whichever rate is applicable is applied to the full amount of your taxable income from the first to the last dollar).

A booklet entitled "YOUR 1942 INCOME TAX" will be available shortly at offices of Inspectors of Income Tax.

- (1) Single—
with taxable income between $660 and $1800—7%
with taxable income between $1800 and $3000—8%
with taxable income over $3000—9%
(2) Married (or equivalent status)— with taxable income over $1200—7%
(3) Dependents—tax credit for each—$28

(B) Graduated Tax—

- (1) On first $660 of taxable income—No Tax.
30% on next $ 500 55% on next $ 5,000
33% on next $ 500 60% on next $ 7,000
37% on next 1000 65% on next 10,000
41% on next 1500 70% on next 20,000
45% on next 1500 75% on next 20,000
50% on next 3000 80% on next 30,000
85% on excess over $100,000

- (2) Married (or equivalent status)—tax credit—$150
(3) Dependents—tax credit for each—up to $80

- (C) Surtax—4% on investment income over $1500 without exemptions.

NOTES

- (1) In no case are you required to pay a net tax (i.e. after credit for dependents) which would reduce your taxable income below $660 single or $1200 married.
(2) If a wife has unearned income over $660, then both she and her husband are taxable as single persons, but any amount a wife earns does not affect her husband's right to be taxed as a married person. A married woman is taxed as a single person under all circumstances except only when her husband's income is less than $660.

(D) Tax Credit for Personal Savings—

You may deduct from the savings portion of your tax (Item 6) 1942 payments on account of—

- (1) an approved employees' (or trade union) superannuation, retirement or pension fund;
(2) premiums on life insurance policies issued prior to 23rd June 1942 (if issued after that date ask your insurance company or Inspector of Income Tax);
(3) annuity or savings policies not postponable without substantial loss or forfeiture; and
(4) principal payments on a mortgage or agreement of sale, existing prior to 23rd June, 1942, on one residential property; provided (a) they do not exceed the savings portion and (b) receipts are produced for the payments when filing your Income Return.

(E) National Defence Tax—

This tax does not apply after 31st August, 1942. The deductions made during January to August 1942 apply as a payment on account of your 1942 tax.

6. Question: HOW MUCH OF YOUR TAX IS SAVINGS?

Answer:

- (1) Single—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 8% of your taxable income (maximum $800) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).
(2) Married (or equivalent status)—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 10% of your taxable income (maximum $1000) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

You will get back the savings portion of your tax which you actually pay, plus 2% interest, after the war.

Western Economy

SINCE THE EARLY SETTLEMENT of the prairie provinces some sixty years ago, agriculture has been the basic industry. Even before the building of a transcontinental railway, hardy pioneers from the eastern provinces and elsewhere were attracted in large numbers by the opportunities this country offered for quick advancement. Here was the virgin, unlimited prairie awaiting the plow, with no impediment by way of stumps or stones to clear the land. Bountiful crops and a ready market for all the grain that could be grown and all the cattle and other livestock that could be raised. Settlers poured in, bringing new wealth to the country, trans-Canada railway lines were built, and branch lines criss-crossed the country.

Plenty Of Work

Ready employment was furnished by railroad construction, the building of new towns, the construction of countless grain elevators and many other activities always associated with the opening up of a new country. An excellent market was at hand for the lumber industry of British Columbia, as well as the fisheries and fruit growers. Truly the West was then the world's granary, the bread basket of the Empire, and no one foresaw the time when its products would be a drag on the market. As an aftermath of the Great World War, our European markets for wheat were virtually lost, owing to the self-sufficiency program adopted by many of the war-torn nations. With the decreased demand, there naturally followed lowered prices for wheat and other farm products, so that today in the midst of another world war, farmers have been asked to reduce their acreage sown to grain.

What To Be Done

In order to secure a balanced economy for the West, it would appear necessary and advisable to look to the establishment of more diversified industry. Western spokesmen have frequently urged the Government to establish more war industries in the West. It has been pointed out that we have unlimited coal resources in Alberta and Saskatchewan. As the Lethbridge Herald aptly says there are tens of thousands of tons of scrap iron in the West which could be fabricated into war material. Why the necessity of shipping this iron to the east, when industries could be established here. It is not only during war-time, but we should look to the future for ways and means for providing employment through the setting up of industries. If we are going to retain our population and build up a prosperous country, we shall have to adopt new and more aggressive methods to attain that end.

Potatoes—Are Brothers Under The Skin

HIGH ON THE MARKET LIST—

If you are watching the food prices and want to get good food value for your money, then put potatoes along with milk, cereals, and bread high on your market list.

THIS IS WHY—

The lowly potato is more important than we thought. In fact the potato is so valuable we must give him a seat of honor at the table. Why?—Well—Potatoes are cheap.
Potatoes give you Vitamin C and iron.
Energy and warmth.

THIS IS HOW MANY—

From 1 to 30 potatoes each day for each man, woman, older boy or older girl. From 1/2 to 1 potato each day for young children.

THESE ARE THE KINDS OF POTATOES—

First in our hearts and on our tables is the white or Irish potato. Then there is the sweet potato. The darker the yellow of the sweet potato the richer it usually is in the "A" vitamin.

TWO WORDS OF WISDOM—

1. Don't diet by not eating potatoes at a meal and then later eating a dessert three times as fattening.
2. Give your family potatoes often and serve them in different ways.

OLD FAVORITES AND NEW DISHES—

1. Imagine Irish stew without potatoes!
2. Clam chowder demands potatoes.
3. Cod fish cakes certainly require mashed potatoes in them.
4. What would a New England boiled dinner be without the big white potatoes?
5. Who does not like Shepherd's pie with its top "crust" of mashed potatoes.
6. Does your family dislike liver? Try cutting it, or grinding it, after boiling, and then mixing with cooked potatoes and seasonings. Serve on toast.
7. Do you like hash-browned potatoes?
8. Do you like browned potatoes and eggs scrambled together?
9. Potatoes and eggs in cream sauce are delicious.

The referential vitamin chart for hanging or framing in your kitchen is still free for the asking from the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto.

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.

By Alan Maurice Irwin

Once or twice I have let my temper run away with me in these columns and have said a good deal of what I thought about a number of Canadians who didn't seem to know that we are fighting a war.

Of course that "good deal of what I thought" was said in a manner not calculated to enrich the vocabularies of compositors if compositors' vocabularies can be enriched—but, nonetheless, despite its moderation my language was intended to conceal none of my thoughts on the subject.

It is only fair then that having found something to boast about I should do my boasting with even less reserve than my crabbing.

And it is something to boast about! At the risk of boring you with stories about the Reserve Army I am going to tell you what happened yesterday in my own battalion. Because that unit is representative of the whole Reserve Army and what happens in it is being duplicated all across the country I am not going to name it.

Yesterday, in keeping with the set-up of the Reserve Army, we were ordered to hold a full days workout in the open. Yesterday, I might mention, was Sunday. Unfortunately the weather was not only inclement—it was a downright day-long "soaker".

We are not fair-weather-soldiers by any means, but when your men are old soldiers, "C" categories or youngsters you think about "hardening" them to the extent of risking a high percentage of pneumonia cases, so our commanding officer decided upon lectures and demonstrations indoors until the weather cleared.

But the weather didn't clear! In due course, when he felt that a full day's work had been done, the O.C. decided to dismiss the parade. That was all very well but he hadn't counted upon the eagerness of the new recruits.

Through their instructors these men asked if they might have some more instruction, taking advantage of a wet Sunday to bring themselves to the point where they could the sooner join their companies and get on with their regular training.

No-one ever refuses a request of that kind and, since the basic training of recruits is the province of the Regimental Sergeant-Major and myself, we asked for volunteer instructors and carried on for an hour and a half.

Without question I have never before seen people work so hard when they weren't compelled to do so. At the end of the period as an experiment I asked the recruits if they wanted to go home or, after 10 minutes for a smoke, would like to work another hour.

Only one man elected to go home—and that was because he had been on the night shift in the munitions factory and had worked all the preceding night.

When the time comes for active defence of Canada we'll have the satisfaction of knowing that men like these will have our safety in their care.

And mind you, there is no fooling about this Reserve Army of ours. The terms of engagement are 'for the duration of the war or, in the case of the men in the lowest age bracket, until they are old enough to volunteer for active service.

Of private soldiers, 15 days of training each year are required. These are divided into: 15 days in camp, 10 full Sundays, 60 nights—considered the equivalent of the remaining 20 days.

Non-commissioned officers, warrant officers and officers are required to put in 10 extra days of training which brings their quota of drill nights up to 90—plus their work as members of committees, orderly duties, etc.

"No fooling" seems to be the proper description, doesn't it? Especially in view of the way the new recruits feel.

Certain Rules Govern Ocean Waves And They In Turn Have Influence On The Air Above

If the flow of air over water were as frictionless as it is over glass, and there was no exchange of heat between them, the sea would always be calm. Turbulence, the eddy motion which causes the up-and-down movement of air, would be almost non-existent. Anything which disturbs the fine equilibrium of calm water—it may be the flight of a bird, so delicate is the balance—forms a wave. According to George Kimble in the Geographic Magazine ripples in the airstream produce similarly sympathetic ripples on the water's surface.

As the waves begin to develop they in turn influence the air motion above them. Air currents begin to conform to the shape of the wave, and as the air is accelerated friction is reduced to a minimum and harmony established.

Thus, seagulls will allow waves to advance underneath them while they let themselves be raised on outstretched wings by the airflow of a wave's crest. In a strong wind there is sufficient lift in these "upward impulses" near a wave's crest to increase an airplane's velocity by seven m.p.h.

Once over the crest the airstream breaks away from the wave's profits and shoots forward to allow eddies to form in the lee. These, coupled with great wind pressure, make the sea turbulent.

As a wave grows it learns to obey rules. The connection between wave length, wave velocity and the period required for a complete wave to pass a fixed point, is settled by a rigid equation of hydrodynamics.

Thus, Atlantic rollers breaking on the north coast of Cornwall at intervals of 15 seconds will have in deep water an average length of 1,150 feet and a velocity of 52 miles an hour. A succession of waves advances at half the speed of the first one, which in turn dies out while the one behind it takes the lead, and so on.

Obviously a wave cannot travel faster than the wind which originally caused it, and it is believed that there must be definite upper limits to the length, velocity and period which ocean waves can reach. Beyond the tropical storm belts, winds of more than 80 miles an hour are unusual from the wave-raising point of view.

Although an 80-m.p.h. gale can only produce a 40-foot wave peak there are authentic cases of hurricanes raising waves to a height of at least 80 feet. However, waves of more than 40 feet are sufficiently uncommon to get mention in most nautical journals, so that sailors' yarns about waves as high as St. Paul's Cathedral are after all just yarns!

As soon as waves form they begin to travel. Some get beyond the wave-raising zone but gradually lose height and persist merely as gentle undulations known as free waves or ground swell. Given sufficient momentum, and provided they don't encounter strong winds from a contrary direction, these swell waves can travel almost from one side of the Atlantic to the other, retaining throughout their original length and velocity, and decreasing in height with the distance from their source.

A series of these long swells, for instance, originating off Newfoundland paralyzed the commerce of the Moroccan port of Casablanca for several months, damaging ships and barges. Investigating, the French authorities discovered they were due to strong winds blowing in the rear of depression over the North Atlantic from Newfoundland to Iceland.

Incoming swells are strongest when there is light northerly wind or calm over most of the sea. —News Review (London).

JUST LIKE THAT

The skipper on one of the British trawlers seemed to show unusual efficiency in knocking down dive bombers, and the admiralty sent an official to interview him and pick up his system. The official got the following answer: "It's like this, sir. I call out, 'George!' and George says 'Ay, ay, sir!' Then I say, 'Plane reported, George.' George says, 'Ay, ay, sir!' Then I say 'Shoot the blighter!' He says 'Ay, ay, sir!' And then George shoots him."

A Good Suggestion

Canadian Poet Thinks United Nations Should Have A Flag

Archdeacon Frederick George Scott of Quebec, well-known Canadian poet, suggests in a letter to the New York Times that there should be a United Nations' flag. "This banner," he writes, "would be flown by each ally with its own national flag, but it would stand for the underlying and unbreakable resolve to the democratic powers."

Answer Is Simple

Greater Buying Power Accounts For More Goods Being Sold

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announces that on the dollar basis retail sales were 12 per cent. higher in June last than in June of 1941, and 41 per cent. higher than in June of 1939. For the first half of this year retail business was up by 17.1 per cent. over the total for the first six months of 1941.

Some of this increase is accounted for by the higher cost of living. Most of it is, however, simply a reflection of the greater buying power which exists in this country despite wartime taxes. Relief is a dead duck everywhere, and thousands of families subsisting on a small allowance three years ago now are maintaining themselves and living on a comfortably higher standard. Tens of thousands of young people are earning money for the first time in their lives, and there are great numbers of families with several members drawing regular wages or salaries where formerly there was but one.

The Government even in June was taking a considerable part of the new earnings through taxes, but what was left set for hosts of Canadians a new high in cash on hand. They had more money to spend and they spent more. Significantly the greatest increases were in candy stores, grocery and meat stores, and restaurants. —Ottawa Journal.

TAXIS ARE SCARCE

The number of London taxis has been reduced by 27 per cent. since the war. Says Home Secretary Herbert Morrison: "The atmosphere at night in the streets of London is made pathetic by the most plaintive calls of 'taxi, taxi!'"

Commanded Canadians At Dieppe

Major-Gen. J. H. Roberts of Kingston, one of Canada's divisional commanders overseas, commanded the Canadian troops in the commando raid on Dieppe, France. He was in France before, in command of an artillery formation in June, 1940, but with the rest of the Canadians was ordered back to England before they engaged the enemy.

Japan's Shipping Problem Is Increased By Her Overworked Land Transportation System

(Max Hill, chief of the Associated Press Tokyo Bureau when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, was among those repatriated on the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm. In the following story he tells of Japan's ocean-going shipping problems.)

LUXURIES from conquered lands won't be coming to Japan for some time to come. Japan's ocean-going shipping—paired considerably by sinkings from its pre-war estimated 6,000,000 tons—is swamped with far more vital tasks than carrying such things as sugar and spices to the island empire. As the one great industrial country of the Orient, she must ship raw rubber, iron ore, chromite, oil and tin back to her manufacturing centres from occupied territory and feed them out again in the finished form.

Have Tough Problem

Pickle Packers Are In Pickle Over Shortage Of Pickers

How can a packer get a peck of pickles packed, if there aren't enough pickers to pick the pickles for the packers to pack?

Or—what's to become of the gherkin if the pickers don't start working?

This problem, and it's a tough one, perplexed the National Pickle Packers Association as a committee of its advertising managers gathered at the Palmer House in Chicago to map strategy to solve the pickle puzzle with publicity.

What puts the packers in such a pretty pickle, besides the shortage of pickle pickers is that this year the crops are tops.

"Why," said Einar Gaustad of Holsum Products, Milwaukee, "crops are the best we've ever had, and pickle prices will probably be the highest in years."

But—no pickers, no pickles. The attitude of the public seems to be: With jobs such easy pickings, who wants to pick pickles?

A luncheon followed the meeting. Pickles were served, of course.

HOME SERVICE

ARE YOU SURE OF TABLE ETIQUETTE?

The "Plate-Passer" Annoys

Ah, such refinement—she thinks. But passing plates on and on only annoys other guests who wonder, "Who invited HER?"

It's correct to be guided by the host, who indicates which plate is whose. Usually the woman on his right is served first. If you are helping yourself to a dish near you you might offer it to the person next you but no elaborate passing!

Sure of such points, which are so easily learned, you can make such a charming impression. At the start of the meal, you let your partner pull out your chair for you. At the end, you leave your chair as it is, not awkwardly pushing it back in place.

You don't leave unpleasant pictures in people's minds biting into a whole piece of bread, eating sticky iced cake with your fingers. You break the bread as you eat it, use a fork with iced cake. And chickens bones? How to eat asparagus canapes?

Our 32-page booklet tells how to eat these and other foods. Describes correct use of silver, when to use fingers; gives dinner etiquette for hostess and guest—course by course. Explains what to do at tea, buffet parties, restaurants, clubs.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Good Table Manners" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

WHERE PAPER IS PRECIOUS

Every envelope used in the General Post Office in London has to do service at least once again for re-addressing or inter-office messages. Large envelopes have had as many as 50 different addresses in the "save paper" campaign.

This may well be breaking the back of a merchant marine already overburdened before Dec. 7 and now harassed by Allied submarines reported reaching even into the entrances of such harbors as Yokohama's.

Japan's industrial cities of Osaka, Yokohama and Tokyo are vulnerable to attack. Thus the great protected plains of Manchukuo months ago began sprouting factories munitions plants and other desperately-needed industries.

Today Japan's troops are spread as thin as rainwater over an area that staggers even the Japanese. It is 6,000 miles from the Aleutians to the Indies north and south, 4,000 miles from Rangoon to the Pacific-manipulated islands east and west.

The shipping problem is made more complex by the island empire's overworked land transportation system, trying vainly to keep a constant flow of products from 15 industrial regions created before the war in an effort to diversify and scatter essential manufacturing.

Industries were picked up bodily from Tokyo, Yokohama and Osaka and resettled in towns hardly on maps.

The enormous tasks placed upon the Japanese navy by the war means that the country's fleet of trans-Pacific liners must brave submarine without convoy, taking their chances on their speed and little else.

Persistent rumors spread in Tokyo that the liners Yawata Maru and Nitta Maru, both 16,500-tonners, were torpedoed.

A hard blow was the acknowledged loss of the 14,457-ton Taiyo Maru, sunk off Japan. Loss of the ship was announced but nothing was said about the reported drowning of 600-odd English-speaking financial and business experts bound for the Indies to whip their resources into wartime economy for the military.

Early in March at least four large troop-laden Japanese transports were sunk out of a convoy bound from Formosa to Kobe.

To supplement their shipping the Japanese acquired some 80,000 tons of French ships, including a passenger liner of the Marshal Joffre type which entered Yokohama as the Asama Maru left for Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East African port, with Canadian and American repatriates now aboard the Gripsholm.

The French crews marched off, refusing to sail under the Rising Sun. French law backed them up.

This meant the Japanese had to find six or eight full crew crews at a time when finding sufficient numbers at all is a major problem.

This scarcity of seamen seemed emphasized by the handling of the Asama Maru by her inexperienced and youthful crew.

FLAX RUST

No less than 125 distinct species of fungi cause rust diseases have been collected in Manitoba alone. Rust diseases are common not only on our cereal crops, but on hollyhocks, cottons, roses, goldenrod, spruce,
cedar, willow, poplar, maples, etc.,
and on many wildflowers and a wide variety of other plants.

All rust fungi are obligate parasites. That is to say, they can only live and reproduce on living plants.
Some, such as the one causing stem rust of wheat, require two different host plants to complete their life cycle. The stem rust organism develops red and black spores on wheat and other grasses. The red spores multiply and produce new infectious spores. The black spores live through the winter and germinate in the spring. When they germinate, they produce small dark lived spores which cannot infect wheat, but only the barley. Infections develop on the barley and a still different type of spore is produced which can infect wheat. We have no barbers in Western Canada, so each spring we depend upon spores imported from the United States to start our epidemics.

But flax rust is different. When the black spores germinate in the spring, they stay where they produce an infect flax directly. Herein lies an important moral. Rust wheat straw lying about the field in fall and spring is harmless. Rust flax straw and stubble are likely to produce a crop of spores which will infect the flax fields. So, burn all rust flax straw and plow under stubble in the fall if it will not burn.
Next year sow flax as far away as possible from where flax grew the year.
